

VOICES OF HOPE: RECLAIMING EVERY CHILD'S FUTURE

2024 Annual Report

SAVE UKRAINE

“Thank you for standing with us during one of the most difficult years in Ukraine’s history. Together, we are writing a new chapter for Ukraine’s children — one where hope is louder than fear, where love overcomes loss, and where every voice is heard.”

Mykola Kuleba, Founder and CEO of Save Ukraine,
Ombudsman for Children with the President of Ukraine (2014-2021)

Our 2024 Impact

334 Children rescued and reunited with family and their home country

4,106 Children and teens helped

1,344 Families strengthened and stabilized

487 Abandoned elderly supported

A Letter from Our Founder & CEO

Dear Friends,

I am overwhelmed by the courage and resilience I see every day in the children and families Save Ukraine serves. Their stories testify to the indomitable spirit of those who refuse to give up hope, even in the face of unimaginable hardship. They are the voices of hope — voices that refuse to be silenced, voices reclaiming a future that war sought to steal.

When Save Ukraine was founded in 2014, our purpose was clear: stand in the gap for the most vulnerable, rescue those in danger, and provide safe, loving environments where children and families can heal. As the war in Ukraine continues devastating lives, our work is more urgent. As Russia’s tactics have evolved, bringing new challenges to operations and threats to children and families trapped in occupied territories or forcibly deported to Russia. Increased bombing of residential buildings and civilian infrastructure has uprooted more children and families from their beloved homes and communities.

Amid the obstacles and devastation, we are seeing miracles...miracles you make possible. We are seeing children reunited with parents they never thought they would hold again. Communities are rallying in support of displaced families. We are seeing the power of hope transform tears into triumph.

Through the unwavering support of donors and advocates like you, 334 more children were rescued from abduction and occupied territories and reunited with their families and homeland in 2024 and more than 6,000 received critical care and shelter. We introduced new services to enhance our existing model, ensuring that every child we rescue receives the support they need to heal and thrive. And yet, thousands of children remain separated from their families. Communities once filled with laughter are still scarred by the trauma of war.

Thank you for your generosity. You are amplifying the voices of those who cannot speak for themselves. Together, we are writing a new chapter for Ukraine’s children — one where hope is louder than fear, where love overcomes loss, and where every voice is heard.

I hope you are encouraged by the stories of children whose lives you have impacted. Let us continue this journey together, reclaiming a future where every child knows the safety and love of family and the strength of a united community.

With deepest gratitude and hope,

Mykola Kuleba
Founder and CEO, Save Ukraine

Who We Are

Children are at the heart of everything we do. As the future of Ukraine and the most vulnerable victims of war, they deserve protection, healing, and a place to belong. Grounded in compassion and justice, we work with churches, government, and NGOs, to reunite families, heal trauma, and defend children's rights and dignity.

Save Ukraine is a non-partisan NGO, located both in Ukraine and the US, which has led the focus on rescuing and rehabilitating children abducted by Russia, as well as children and families trapped in occupied territories and on the frontlines.

Our mission

To rescue and build a strong and resilient generation of children while strengthening families as the foundation of Ukraine.

Our vision

To see a thriving and vibrant Ukraine, where every community empowers families, and every child has an opportunity to reach their full potential.

How We Help

Save Ukraine's core pillars

Save Ukraine rescues children abducted by Russia, as well as children and families trapped in occupied territories and in frontline communities. We work tirelessly to locate and safely extract children and families from dangerous environments. Save Ukraine ensures that no child is left behind.

Save Ukraine focuses on restoring the physical, emotional, and psychological well-being of children and families affected by war. This includes providing urgent resources and services to help children and families recover from the horrors of displacement and abduction. By addressing their immediate needs, we help children regain their sense of safety, stability, and dignity.

Save Ukraine supports children through family reunification or placement in safe, loving homes while helping displaced families integrate into safe communities across Ukraine. We ensure successful transitions by providing community support, education, and sustainable resources — empowering families to rebuild their lives and thrive long-term.

RESCUE

RESCUING Children from Harm

Today, thousands of children have been abducted, separated from their families and taken thousands of miles from their home, deep into Russian occupied territories and Russia. Thousands more remain trapped with their families in occupied territories with no way out. As one mother rescued with her daughter from occupied territory shared, “We lived as hostages in our own home.” For countless families, this is a heartbreaking reality. Children and teens in occupied territories and Russia experience intense indoctrination, militarization, oppression, religious persecution, and many children in families remain at a high risk of being separated from them. Along the frontlines, thousands experience frequent shelling and live amongst rubble.

Save Ukraine responds swiftly — rescuing abducted children from Russian controlled territories, along with families, and evacuating children and families from the frontlines. In 2024, we remained the largest organization reuniting Ukrainian children with their families and home country, serving as a lifeline for those most at risk.

At Save Ukraine, it's our tradition to wrap every child in the Ukrainian flag upon their return — a gesture that says, “You are home.” Wrapped in the blue and yellow of Ukraine, each rescued child is reclaimed — not just by a nation, but by hope itself. Their voice, once silenced by war, now speaks of belonging, resilience, and a future restored.

RESCUE: Key Programs & Figures

Search and Identification: Data to identify abducted children is gathered from various sources, including families, Ukrainian ministries, schools, orphanages, and European authorities. Save Ukraine’s 24/7 hotline also receives calls directly from children and families, or family members on their behalf, requesting to be rescued from Russian controlled territories and frontline communities.

Preparation for Return and Reunification: These sensitive operations require careful preparation and planning, to ensure the safest route. We support children and families with document preparation and provide legal and psychological support. Our case managers work carefully to assess the needs of every child and family to prepare for their journey and meet their needs upon arrival.

Arrival and Assessment: Upon arrival, rescued children and families receive humanitarian aid packages to meet basic needs. They undergo registration and assessment to determine additional needs, and have the option to move into our Restore programs for recovery.

Our 2024 Impact

334 children rescued from abduction and Russian controlled territories, and reunited with their families and homeland; resulting in 602 children, including 134 orphans, since the start of the war.

3,379 individuals evacuated from the front lines, bringing us to over 110,000 individuals since the start of war

2,506 requests were processed by our 24/7 hotline.

RESCUE Challenges & Solutions in 2024

Limited Information: Russia hides and manipulates records (i.e. names, birthdates) of abducted children.

➤ Solution: We formed an investigation team that uses open-source intelligence (OSINT) to track movements and trained crisis communicators.

Russian Propaganda: Disinformation and fear tactics leave Ukrainian families locked in oppression and fear in Russian controlled territories, preventing repatriation.

➤ Solution: We initiated an information campaign in occupied territories and Russia with trained communicators to combat disinformation.

Document Confiscation: Families in occupied territories and those forcibly deported to Russia often lack essential documents, such as passports and birth certificates, preventing their safe and seamless return to Ukraine.

➤ Solution: We established a legal process to restore documents through national courts.

Maksym's Story

Home at Last

After years of living under Russian occupation in Donetsk, 8-year-old Maksym and his mother were forcibly relocated to Moscow, where he was required to attend a local school. Families who resist relocation or Russian schooling are often threatened with having their children taken away. In school, Russian children taunted Maksym with “Murderer! Ukrainian!” and were physically abusive to him during gym and recess. The abuse persisted for months and when it was addressed by Maksym’s parents, the teachers and other Russian parents dismissed it as mere play.

Natalia, Maksym’s mother, had already endured forced deportation once before, along with imprisonment for curfew violations while obtaining medicine, and years of oppression under Russian occupation. On May 9 — Russia’s Victory Day — the school staff forced Maksym to wear a Soviet military uniform and sing the “Day of Victory” song. He resisted, but the pressure was overwhelming and Natalia saw the writing on the wall.

Natalia knew of boys as young as 12 being forced to attend military training, and of young deported Ukrainian teens being issued Russian passports and conscription papers at the same time — sent to the frontlines to fight against their homeland. She could not bear Russian control, oppression, and indoctrination any longer and decided to flee rather than let her young son fall victim to Russia’s re-education, bullying, and militarization. She and Maksym longed to return home to Ukraine.

With her Ukrainian documents confiscated and no clear way to return home, Natalia turned to Save Ukraine in desperation. We helped restore her and Maksym’s documentation and successfully rescued them from Russia. Once safely back in Kyiv, they received rehabilitation and support to begin rebuilding their lives.

Today, Maksym is thriving — attending school, surrounded by his culture and friends, and free to dream of a future in the country he proudly calls home.

RESTORING Children to Safety and Stability

RESTORE: Key Programs & Figures

War, violence, separation, and the loss of a loved one, a community, or beloved home, leaves deep emotional wounds in children and families. Trauma can prevent families from rebuilding their lives, especially when basic needs like safety, shelter, and healthcare remain unmet — leaving children highly vulnerable.

Without timely support for children and families to stabilize and recover, these wounds can last a lifetime and even be passed onto future generations.

That’s why our work doesn’t end with rescue. We provide critical comprehensive aid and rehabilitation services to create safety, confidence, and stability — giving children and families the foundation they need to heal, recover, and ultimately successfully reunite and reintegrate into society.

Our restore programs are delivered through 6 Hope and Healing Centers and 120+ transitional shelters across Ukraine. These live-in facilities provide for the immediate needs of the most vulnerable children, displaced families, and abandoned elderly impacted by war. This includes children with disabilities, orphans, child survivors or sexual violence, and those who have experienced abduction, prolonged family separation, and other horrors of war.

Each of our Hope & Healing Centers focus on specific groups to ensure tailored care:

- 3 centers for children and families rescued from Russian controlled territories and frontlines
- 2 centers for abandoned elderly
- 1 center for child survivors of abuse and sexual violence
- Plus, 127 transitional shelters, modular homes, for displaced families

Our Hope & Healing Centers offer:

- Temporary housing (3-6 months) and meals
- Humanitarian aid to meet basic needs
- Psychological and social support, trauma care
- Legal aid to help restore critical documents and defend child survivors of abuse and war crimes
- Community, parenting and reunification support

Our 2024 Impact

- Save Ukraine provided:
- 1,120 children/592 families and 487 elderly with temporary housing
 - 5,400 hours of counseling and psychological support to children and families
 - 7,658 meals to children and families
 - 53 child survivors of abuse and exploitation case management and legal support, with 3 court victories and closure to 15 cases
 - 150+ critical documents restored

RESTORE Challenges & Solutions in 2024

- Psychological Impact: An increase in trauma cases and long-term effects.
- Solution: We introduced varied trauma recovery methods, including child and clinical psychology, art therapy, and Trust-Based Relational Intervention (TBRI).
- Community Reintegration: Families struggled to reintegrate into new communities after rehabilitation.
- Solution: We added vocational training programs to help families develop new skills and reintegrate more quickly.
- Disability Services: A severe shortage of services for children with disabilities.
- Solution: We developed partnerships to provide access to necessary medical and educational services, along with social benefits, for children with disabilities.

Dayana's Story

From Isolation to Reunification & Restoration

In October 2022, as the war intensified in Kherson, 14-year-old Dayana and her younger siblings, Yana and Nikita, were sent by their school to a camp in Russian-occupied Crimea — without warning or choice for them (or their mother!). What the children experienced was a nightmare: freezing temperatures, filthy living conditions, indoctrination, and complete isolation from the outside world.

Each day began with the forced singing of the Russian anthem, and their education was stripped of any Ukrainian identity. Dayana watched classmates be mercilessly mocked by staff for not speaking Russian. Her 10-year-old brother, Nikita, suffered emotional breakdowns and was eventually sent to a psychiatric hospital for several weeks, where he was medicated to keep him quiet and calm.

As weeks turned into months, the reality of their situation and uncertainty became unbearable. Camp officials began preparing Russian documents for the children as they claimed Kherson was “too dangerous” for the children to return. With no ability to contact their mother and knowing that Ukrainian children were being placed in Russian families, the children’s hope of seeing their mother again was fading. However, hope arrived when a friend shared Save Ukraine’s contact information with Dayana.

Thanks to Save Ukraine, Dayana and her siblings were rescued and reunited with their mother at a Hope and Healing Center in Kyiv, where they received temporary housing, therapy, and support. While there, not only did Dayana and her siblings find safety and support, but their mother, Olena, also received the help she needed to plan the next steps for her family. As Olena worked to heal from the trauma of war and displacement, she searched for a new home, and Save Ukraine helped her secure a job.

Today, Dayana is studying tourism in college, spending time with family, and even traveling — embracing a future once stolen by war. With income from her new job, Olena rented an apartment and started a new life with her children — safe and together. Futures have been reclaimed and hope restored!

Andriy's Story

Strings of Hope & Healing

When we first met Andriy, he was quiet, reserved, and hesitant to trust — a young, 9 year-old boy carrying the weight of trauma after fleeing his home, and everything he loved, under shelling in the Donetsk region.

Andriy and his mother entered our Hope and Healing Center for refuge and restoration after arriving in Kyiv. From the start Andriy kept his distance with other children and staff, he was tense and unwilling to join group activities. The pain he carried was evident in his guarded demeanor. His mother was worried as she saw the pain in his eyes — his joy was missing.

At Save Ukraine, we know healing takes time. By offering Andriy space, support, and a safe environment, his walls slowly began to crack. Over the course of two months, with individual counseling and creative art therapy, he began to feel safe and his self-confidence started to bloom. He began to smile more, lend a helping hand to others, and engage in activities that once felt overwhelming.

This included learning to play the guitar which became a turning point. Music gave him a voice — a way to express himself when words felt too heavy. Through music, therapy, and community, Andriy found joy again. Today, he looks forward to playing with friends and is slowly learning how to trust. Joy has returned as Andriy and his mother see hope in their future.

While their journey is far from over, we are honored to walk alongside them both every step of the way, as they fully reintegrate into their new safe community.

REINTEGRATE

REINTEGRATING Children into Families, and Families into Communities

Imagine being forced to move to a new city — leaving virtually everything behind. You still hear the sounds of missiles in your mind. And everything in your new “home” is less familiar, from the schools to the market. You have no job and no friends, you don’t know how you will provide for your children — and your hope is fading fast...

Our reintegration efforts exist to relieve this hurt and uncertainty, providing long-term support to help war-affected families rebuild and adapt to new communities in safety.

REINTEGRATE: Key Programs & Figures

Our comprehensive model of children and family services supports reintegration for both repatriated and refugee children, along with those already in the community. Through Save Ukraine Education & Empowerment Centers (18) and Resiliency Centers (6) located in cities with high numbers of internally displaced persons (IDPs) and high vulnerability, we offer children protection, education, and mental health support. Specifically:

- 1. Mental health and psychological support (MHPSS) through art therapy for children, counseling services, and parent support groups.
- 2. Inclusive education/catch-up classes to help children bridge learning gaps through individualized tutoring, language and math classes, and specialized support for sensory needs and disabilities.
- 3. Early intervention support for children 0-4 years old with developmental delays, addressing a child’s developmental needs before critical growth stages end.
- 4. Case management to timely identify vulnerabilities and unlock access to essential benefits and support services for children and families in need.

Our centers provide safe, inclusive spaces where children can heal, grow, and thrive — and where parents find support, connection, and a true sense of community. It’s where joy is found!

Our 2024 Impact

2,500 children received support through our Education & Empowerment Centers, serving 500 children per day and where 3,800 educational classes were conducted, and...

600 parents/guardians received counseling services.

95 children/families were served through our Early Intervention Program

57 beneficiaries were served through our Social Taxi service

7,358 social service requests were fulfilled through our Resiliency Centers, including requests for legal advice, document assistance, employment counseling, professional development, training programs, health programs, and referrals to psychological and medical support

REINTEGRATE Challenges and Solutions in 2024

Limited Services for Children with Disabilities: The war has further reduced, and in some cases eliminated, already limited government resources for services supporting children with disabilities.

➤ Solution: We established inclusive services — such as centers for children with disabilities, early intervention programs, social taxi services, and art centers — to serve both locals and IDPs.

Educational Gaps: War-affected children experience significant educational setbacks.

➤ Solution: We expanded catch-up classes in Ukrainian language and math, along with individual and group tutoring and homework support. Our teachers use diverse methods to engage and inspire students.

Economic Hardship: Many war-affected families struggle with poverty and job loss.

➤ Solution: We began conducting comprehensive assessments to develop tailored support plans for each family.

Risk of Institutionalization: Over 120 orphans returned from Russia and occupied territories risked being placed in institutions.

➤ Solution: We connected children with foster care programs, housing, education, and case management to ensure they found safe, family-based care instead of institutional placement.

Delayed Development Risks: Many families with young children struggle to access essential developmental and healthcare support for their children.

➤ Solution: We launched and strengthened programs like Early Intervention, Sure Start, and medical patronage to provide vital healthcare, education, and counseling for children and their families.

Matvii's Story

A Future Transformed by Early Intervention

In the midst of war, survival becomes the primary focus. For families with children with disabilities, the struggle is even greater. This was the harsh reality for Matvii's family in the Donetsk region, where explosions echoed daily in the background.

As the conflict intensified in early March 2024, Matvii received a life-changing diagnosis: autism spectrum disorder (ASD). For his parents, the diagnosis came as an overwhelming blow, compounding their fear and uncertainty amid the ongoing war. Feeling lost and helpless, they turned to Save Ukraine for help. They needed safety and support for their son.

The family was evacuated to one of Save Ukraine's Hope and Healing Centers, where they found not only safety but also a chance to rebuild their lives. Later, with the provision of a Save Ukraine modular home, they took the first steps toward starting over.

At first, Matvii's mother doubted that any improvement was possible for Matvii, and did not believe he would ever be able to attend an inclusive school. The trauma of war and the challenges of raising a child with special needs felt insurmountable. However, hope began to take root when Save Ukraine's Early Intervention Program launched in August of 2024. Through the dedicated efforts of a psychologist and a case manager, Matvii began to flourish. His mother, once filled with doubt, witnessed remarkable progress as her son became more independent and started communicating better. Alongside Matvii's development, she gained the confidence to believe in his potential.

As the family found their footing, new opportunities emerged. Recently, Matvii's father secured employment in Kyiv, prompting the family to relocate. Now renting an apartment in the city, Matvii attends an inclusive kindergarten where he continues to grow. Save Ukraine case workers remain connected, offering ongoing online support as their journey progresses. Matvii's mother attributes Save Ukraine's Early Intervention Program as the reason Matvii reached developmental milestones to be able to attend an inclusive kindergarten during the day; a critical factor to successful integration into their new community and way of life. "I used to think my son would never be able to eat on his own. But now, it's becoming a reality," says Matvii's mother. "The specialists did more than help us — they gave us hope. And with hope comes the strength to move forward."

At Save Ukraine, we are committed to supporting every family and child to reintegrate into new communities — helping them adapt, grow, and build new lives. Together, with the generosity of donors, we are turning hope into lasting change.

Better Together

Partnerships & Collaborations

In 2024, Save Ukraine strengthened partnerships with governments, international organizations, UN agencies, and faith-based communities to advance our mission of rescuing children and supporting vulnerable populations. We deepened cooperation with the Office of the President, the Ministry of Social Policy, the Ministry of Reintegration, the National Police, and other state institutions to coordinate rescue, rehabilitation, and reintegration efforts.

We also expanded partnerships with local churches across Ukraine, empowering faith communities to play a critical role in supporting displaced families, caring for orphans, and providing essential services. Generous support from international faith-based organizations has further enabled our work, helping us restore hope and stability to those in need.

Additionally, we secured support from the governments of the Netherlands, Malta, Australia, Canada, and the Foreign and Commonwealth Development Office (FCDO), among others. Our collaboration with organizations such as Chemonics, UCBI, UNICEF, UNFPA, OCHA, and other UN bodies has enhanced access to critical social services, ensuring that children and families receive the care and protection they deserve.

A Letter from Our US Board Chair

We Begin with Gratitude

In the midst of one of the defining conflicts of Ukraine, Europe, and the world, there are those who remain passionately dedicated to helping the most vulnerable — the children of war.

Inside Ukraine, over 300 members of Save Ukraine show up every day, committed to rescuing, restoring, and rebuilding the lives of children and families suffering from the consequences of intentional evil. Whether enduring bombs and bullets, navigating threats from Russian secret police, or searching, finding, convincing, hugging, listening, crying with, or educating children — the mission remains the same: saving Ukraine by saving its children.

Through the heroic efforts of many, Save Ukraine has successfully rescued three times more abducted and traumatized children than any other governmental or non-governmental organization. And yet, none of this would be possible without the generosity of so many people who have answered the call to help in whatever way they can.

All the gratitude in our hearts for the ability and opportunity to act — all the clarity that comes from trying to do good against such unspeakable and cunning evil — compels us to keep pressing forward, every day, to Save Ukraine.

But we cannot succeed alone — we need your continued support.

Thank you again for your generosity; we are deeply grateful for all that you can do.

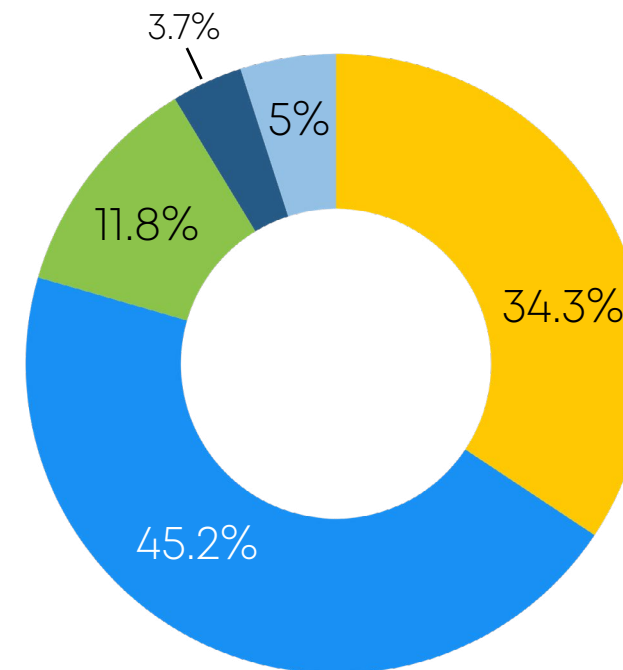

For the children of Ukraine,

Eric Gebaide
Save Ukraine US Board Chair

Looking Ahead

In the face of ongoing uncertainty and the ravages of war, our commitment to the children and families of Ukraine remains stronger than ever. Our mission is more than just providing safety and refuge; it's about empowering families to rebuild their lives, ensuring that no child is left behind, and helping Ukraine rise up stronger than before.

In the year ahead, we remain focused on critical efforts to:

- Rescue hundreds of more children and families from the clutches of occupation and forced deportation, bringing them back to safety in Ukraine.
- Restore more lives through comprehensive support and rehabilitation services, ensuring those we rescue not only survive but experience deep healing.
- Reintegrate thousands more displaced persons to safe communities where they can rebuild their lives with dignity and proper support services.

In 2025, we are expanding our focus to establish child and family services in local communities, ensuring that children grow up in safety and in families — not orphanages, and that teens who age out of an orphanage have the support they need to achieve independence. We are seeking to strengthen communities where war has left thousands of children orphaned, women widowed, and decimated local child and family services. Without essential support, more families risk falling apart. As Save Ukraine, it is our commitment that no child should be placed in an institution. Every child deserves the love, stability, and safety of a family — because children thrive in families!

Expanded Focus in 2025

In order to meet the growing needs of children, in 2025 we plan to:

Launch a pilot community in the Kyiv region to provide holistic, family-centered care for Ukraine's most vulnerable children — orphans, emancipated teens, survivors of abuse, and children with disabilities — ensuring they grow up in safe environments and loving homes, not institutions. This includes:

- Launching a Child Protection and Advocacy Center (PANDA Center) for children affected by sexual exploitation and violence
- Opening an Inclusive Kindergarten that offers quality education, individualized therapy, socialization, and developmental support
- Advancing foster care for children in need of a family
- Establishing a Social Dormitory for emancipated teens to support their transition to independent living
- Launching a Social Kitchen to provide meals for vulnerable populations and offer vocational training for displaced women in the culinary field
- And more!

Together, we are making a lasting impact, ensuring every child has the chance to heal, grow, and contribute to a brighter, stronger future in Ukraine. We are building towards a peaceful and prosperous Ukraine—one child, one family at a time.

Join Us in Rescuing Lives and Restoring Hope

The fight for Ukraine's children is far from over. Thousands remain trapped in occupied territories, separated from their families, and at risk of losing their future. Families torn apart by war need urgent support to heal, rebuild, and thrive. But we cannot do this alone.

How You Can Make a Difference:

- Partner with Us – If you represent a government, NGO, or faith-based organization, join us in expanding critical rescue, rehabilitation, and reintegration efforts. Together, we can meet the needs of children and families across Ukraine.
- Donate – Your financial support helps rescue abducted children, provide emergency aid to displaced families, and ensure every child has the opportunity to grow up in a safe and loving home.
- Advocate – Use your voice to raise awareness about the crisis facing Ukraine's children. Engage with policymakers, share their stories, and help keep their needs on the global agenda.

With unwavering faith, commitment, and action, we can restore what war has taken. Join us in ensuring every child is safe, every family is supported, and every future is reclaimed.
